Many companies expect their export compliance managers, both Empowered Officials and Compliance Officers to be the best educated, most experienced, and highest-prepared person in the company when it comes to ITAR and EAR compliance. These roles require constant education and updating, especially during the times and changes of the Export Control Reforms. Can you confidently say you meet these criteria?

This program addresses both EAR and ITAR knowledge requirements which can help keep YOU and your company safeguarded from committing export compliance violations.

To better understand the U.S. export laws and how they apply to you and your business REGISTER now for this program.

Export Compliance Managers: Empowered Officials and Compliance Officers

October 24

This program will provide you with a better understanding of the roles and responsibilities associated with Export Compliance Managers: Empowered Official (EO) and Export Compliance Officers (ECO). These positions hold authority for policy and management within your company or organization. Along with the title, comes the responsibility to sign license application or other approval requests and implementation of provisions and requirements of export control regulations. The role of the EO or ECO has the independent authority to inquire into any aspect of an export transaction; verify legality; and to refuse to proceed without adverse recourse. You will have a greater understanding of the mandatory requirements of these roles at the conclusion of this workshop.

You will learn:

- > Empowered Official (EO) under ITAR is more just a fancy title*
- > Understand the Empowered Official's Role and Key Responsibilities under ITAR*
- > Legal Appointment of the Empowered Official under ITAR*
- > Export Officer / Manager Role and Responsibilities under EAR*
- > Who should the EO / Export Officer report to in the organization?*
- > Recognize problems an EO and Export Officer may encounter*
- > What's the link between the Company's Code of Conduct and Empowered Official's conduct.*

The presenter, Vickie Lanich of Export Compliance Connections, LLC brings years of experience and instruction on export compliance and trade laws.
